

SUPPORTING VICTIMS OF CHILD ABUSE

Susie's Place was founded in Avon, Ind., to provide a child-friendly environment for forensic interviews with children following allegations of sexual abuse and neglect. Interviews are monitored live by police and prosecutors, and they are recorded so that the children do not have to repeat their testimonies in person in court. Susie's Place served over 300 children at its Avon center in 2016. The founding team understood that their relationship with the child ended with the completion of the interview and court proceedings, though the child's need for care and counseling continued.

The founding team understood that their relationship with the child ended with the completion of the interview and court proceedings, though the child's need for care and counseling continued. In 2016, Indiana University Health West Hospital provided a $6,700 matching grant for three years to support the addition of ongoing counseling for child victims of abuse and their non-offending family members. Child abuse victims are at increased risk for entering abusive relationships as they grow up or becoming abusers themselves. Susie's Place believes continuing investment in the child's well-being is critical to holistic, life-long healing from childhood victimization.
