2021-2022 IU Health Ball Memorial Hospital PGY1 Pharmacy Residents

Josh Blain, PharmD

I am Dr. Joshua Blain. I am from Hillsboro, Illinois. I received my Doctorate of Pharmacy from the St. Louis College of Pharmacy. I chose pharmacy because it is a diverse career that offers a plethora of opportunities for personal and professional growth. As a pharmacist, I play a crucial role in optimizing pharmacotherapy and improving patient outcomes. I am afforded the chance to dive deep into my patient's health and help tailor the most appropriate therapy. In addition, we help manage chronic conditions such as hypertension, asthma, diabetes, etc. Working in a multidisciplinary team allows me to work directly with physicians, nurses, occupational and physical therapists, dieticians, social workers, and other professionals; I picked IU Health Ball Memorial because the system offers countless opportunities to grow professionally. As the largest healthcare system in Indiana, we are on the cutting edge of medicine. When looking into residency, IU Health Ball Memorial was an ideal place to pursue. With the hospital located in Muncie, IN, there is never a shortage of fun activities to do outside of work. IU Health Ball's employees have the friendliest staff, especially in the pharmacy. Everyone works to help build each other. IU Health Ball also offers great electives for the residency year. The residency program director works directly with the residents and helps create a schedule that best matches your career goals. After completing my PGY-1 residency, I hope to continue using my clinical skills in the inpatient setting. Through my APPEs and into my residency, I have a growing passion for critical care. I hope that I will continue working in a similar setting. I also have a passion for teaching. I hope that in my future practice, I will have the opportunity to precept pharmacy students.

W. Garrett Jarboe, PharmD

I am Dr. Warren Garrett Jarboe, but many just call me Garrett. I am from a small town called Tell City, located in southern Indiana. I graduated from Butler University this past May with a Doctorate of Pharmacy. I have always known medicine was my future and decided to combine that with my love of chemistry and research. With my passion for the clinical setting, I chose to pursue a post-graduate residency at a hospital. I am thrilled to serve and learn from the Indiana University Health Ball Memorial Hospital as a Resident Pharmacist. I picked Ball Memorial due to the excellent learning environment, amazing health team, and superb patient care offerings throughout the expansive IU Health System. After my year at Ball, I hope to pursue either a second-year residency in oncology or a direct career in oncology. I believe this will be just one of the many steps toward being a Board Certified Oncology Pharmacist. Between my work and research commitments, I enjoy playing piano, watching movies, and being with my partner and pets.
